

ALAN SONDHEIM

1958 -

1: BOUND

Message
From: Alan Sondheim
Date: Mon Nov 25 2002
9:59 pm
Subject: Periodic notice: Internet Philosophy and Psychology - 11/26/02 (last was 08/02/02)

My recent work has been dealing with sexuality, terror, death, windows onto worlds, the confluence of subtropical nature with subsumption neural architectures. I have also been working on a series of 3D animations (mixed with real-life video), pieces exploring the same themes in extreme or extended spaces. An extended video, Trilby, was produced; more recent videos include a Scan series, and Alberta.mov. (All available reduced on cdrom.) this is a somewhat periodic notice describing my Internet Text, available on the Net, and sent in the form of texts to various lists. The URLs are <http://www.asondheim.org> and <http://www.anu.edu.au/english/internet.txt/> which is partially mirrored at <http://lists.village.virginia.edu/~spoons/internet.txt.html>. See <http://www.asondheim.org/porta/> for new video/imagework; please note this is for over -18/ The changing nature of the email lists, Cybermind and Wrying, to which almost all of the texts are sent individually, hides the full body of the work; readers may not be aware of the continuity among them. The writing may appear fragmented, created piecemeal, splintered from a non-existent whole. On my end, the whole is evident, the texts extended into the lists, partial or transitional objects. So this (periodic) notice is an attempt to recuperate the work as totality, restrain its diaphanous existence. Below is an updated introduction. The "Internet Text" currently constitutes around 100 files, or 10,000 printed pages. It began in 1994, and has continued as an extended meditation on cyberspace, expanding into 'wild theory' and literatures, symptomologies of the edge. Almost all of the text is in the form of short- or long-waves. The former are the individual sections, written in a variety of styles, at times referencing other writers/theorists. The sections are interrelated; on occasion emanations are used, avatars of philosophical or psychological import. These also create and problematize narrative substructures within the work as a whole. Such are Susan Graham, Julu, Alan, Jennifer, Azure, and Nikuko in particular. The long-waves are fuzzy thematics bearing on such issues as death, sexuality, virtual embodiment, the "granularity of the real," physical reality, computer languages, and protocols. The waves weave throughout the text; the resulting splits and convergences owe something to phenomenology, programming, deconstruction, linguistics, philosophy and prehistory, as well as the domains of online worlds in relation to everyday realities. Overall, I'm concerned with virtual-real subjectivity and its manifestations. I continue working on a cdrom of the last eight years of my work (Archive), as well as a series of 3d animation and other videos, some of which are on cdrom. Information on the availability of cdroms containing the text and other materials (graphics, video, sound, articles books), see the appended notice below. You can find my collaborative projects at <http://trace.ntu.ac.uk/writers/sondheim/index.htm> and my conference activities at <http://trace.ntu.ac.uk> - both as a result of my virtual writer-in-residence with the Trace online writing community. See also: echo, Alt-X, e-book and publish-on-demand, 2002 Being on Line, Net Subjectivity (anthology), Lusitania, 1997 New Observations Magazine #120 (anthology), Cultures of Cyberspace, 1998 The Case of the Real, Pote and Poets Press, 1998 Jennifer, Nominative Press Collective, 1997 Alan Sondheim 718-857-3671 or 718-813-3285 (US) 432 Dean Street, Brooklyn, NY, 11217

The preceding statement absolutely implies quite a great body of beautifully creative work from an intelligent man who appears to some to have only been born yesterday and hardly able to pull the blanket up over his shoulders and certainly unable to know any clean words whatever clean words are or much less steal Appolon's golden penis whatever a penis could be: They never heard of one: Or saw one: Or touched one: Yet: Must behold this elect.trick burster of the shit dull chains of mediocre death scion of free elektron trick Hermes as a long suffering elect.trick Prometheus:

ALAN SONDHEIM

1958-

2: WOUND

S
U s
a
n
n
G
r
a
h
a l
m u
o
n
r
e J
e
n
n
i f
e
r
A
z
u
r
e
P h
i
l
o
s o
p h
y
a
n
d
P
s
y
c h
o
l
o
g
y

Message
 From: Alan
 Sondheim Date:
 Mon Nov 25, 2002
 9:59 pm
 Subject: Periodic notice: Internet Philosophy and Psychology -

11/26/02 (last was 08/02/02) My recent work has been dealing with sexuality, terror, death, windows onto worlds, the confluence of subtropical nature with subsumption neural architectures. I have also been working on a series of 3D animations (mixed with real-life video), pieces exploring the same themes in extreme or extended spaces. An extended video, Trilby, was produced; more recent videos include a Scan series, and Alberta.mov. (All available reduced on cdrom.) this is a somewhat periodic notice describing my Internet Text, available on the Net, and sent in the form of texts to various lists. The URLs are <http://www.sondheim.org> and <http://www.anu.edu.au/english/Internet.txt/> which is partially mirrored at http://lists.village.virginia.edu/~spoons/internet\_txt.html. See <http://www.asondheim.org/portal/> for new video/imagework; please note this is for over -18/ The changing nature of the email lists, Cybermind and Writing, to which almost all of the texts are sent individually, hides the full body of the work; readers may not be aware of the continuity among them. The writing may appear fragmented, created piecemeal, splintered from a non-existent whole. In my end, the whole is evident, the texts extended into the partial or transitional objects. So this (periodic) notice is an attempt to recuperate the work as totality, restrain its diaphanous existence. Below is an updated introduction. The "Internet Text" currently constitutes around 100 files, or 10,000 printed pages. It began in 1994, and has continued as an extended meditation on cyberspace, expanding into "wild theory" and literatures, symptomologies of the edge. Almost all of the text is in the form of short- or long-waves. The former are the individual sections, written in a variety of styles, at times referencing other writers/theorists. The sections are interrelated; on occasion emanations are used, avatars of philosophical or psychological import. These also create and problematize narrative substructures within the work as a whole. Such are Susan Graham, Julu, Alan, Jennifer, Azure, and Nikuko in particular. The long-waves are fuzzy thematics bearing on such issues as death, sexuality, virtual embodiment, the "granularity of the real," physical reality, computer languages, and protocols. The waves weave throughout the text; the resulting splits and convergences owe something to phenomenology, programming deconstruction, linguistics, philosophy and prehistory, as well as the domains of online worlds in relation to everyday realities. Overall, I'm concerned with virtual-real subjectivity and its manifestations. I continue working on a cdrom of the last eight years of my work (Archive), as well as a series of 3d animation and other videos, some of which are on cdrom. Information on the availability of cdroms containing the text and other materials (graphics, video, sound, articles books), see the appended notice below. You can find my collaborative projects at <http://trace.ntu.ac.uk/writers/sondheim/index.htm> and my conference activities at <http://trace.ntu.ac.uk> - both as a result of my virtual writer-in-residence with the Trace online writing community. See also: echo, Alt-X, e-book and publish-on-demand, 2002 Being on Line, Net Subjectivity (anthology), Lusitania, 1997 New Observations Magazine #120 (anthology), Cultures of Cyberspace, 1998 The Case of the Real, Pote and Poets Press, 1998 Jennifer, Nominative Press Collective, 1997 Alan Sondheim 718-857-3671 or 718-813-3285 (US) 432 Dean Street, Brooklyn, NY, 11217

The preceding statement absolutely implies quite a great body of beautifully creative work from an intelligent man who appears to some to have only been born yesterday and hardly able to pull the blanket up over his shoulders and certainly unable to know any clean words whatever clean words are or much less steal Appolon's golden penis whatever a penis is even if he has a very enlarged and blood gorged one on his hands. And now I will say farewell elect. trick burster of the gold chains of mediocre security and scion of free elect. trick Hermes and elect.trick Prometheus unbound:

And I shall remember
 you and I will sing of another
 human too

ALAN SONDHEIM

1958-

3: UNBOUND

S
U s
a
n
G
r
a
h
a
m J
u
l
i
e
N
i
k
u k
o
J
e
n
n
i f
e
r
A
z
u
r
e
P h
i
l
o
s o
p h
y
a
n
d
P
s
y
c
h
o
l
o
g
y

Message
From: Alan
Sondheim Date:
Mon Nov 25, 2002
9:59 pm Subject: Periodic notice: Internet Philosophy and Psychology -

11/26/02 (last was 08/02/02) My recent work has been dealing with sexuality, terror, death, windows onto worlds, the confluence of subtropical nature with subsumption neural architectures. I have also been working on a series of 3D animations (mixed with real-life video), pieces exploring the same themes in extreme or extended spaces. An extended video, Trilby, was produced; more recent videos include a Scan series, and Alberta.mov. (All available reduced on cdrom.) this is a somewhat periodic notice describing my Internet Text, available on the Net, and sent in the form of texts to various lists. The URLs are <http://www.sondheim.org> and <http://www.anu.edu.au/english/Internet.txt/> which is partially mirrored at http://lists.village.virginia.edu/~spoons/internet\_txt.html. See <http://www.asondheim.org/portal/> for new video/imagework; please note this is for over -18/ The changing nature of the email lists, Cybermind and Writing, to which almost all of the texts are sent individually, hides the full body of the work; readers may not be aware of the continuity among them. The writing may appear fragmented, created piecemeal, splintered from a non-existent whole. In my end, the whole is evident, the texts extended into the partial or transitional objects. So this periodic notice is an attempt to recuperate the work as totality, restrain its diaphanous existence. Below is an abridged introduction. The "Internet Text" currently constitutes around 100 files, or 10,000 printed pages. It began in 1994, and has continued as an extended meditation on cyberspace, expanding into "wild theory" and literatures, symptomologies of the edge. Almost all of the text is in the form of short- or long-waves. The former are the individual sections, written in a variety of styles, at times referencing other writers/theorists. The sections are interrelated; on occasion emanations are used, avatars of philosophical or psychological import. These also create and problematize narrative substructures within the work as a whole. Such are Susan Graham, Julu, Alan, Jennifer, Azure, and Nikuko in particular. The long-waves are fuzzy thematics bearing on such issues as death, sexuality, virtual embodiment, the "granularity of the real," physical reality, computer languages, and protocols. The waves weave throughout the text; the resulting splits and convergences owe something to phenomenology, programming deconstruction, linguistics, philosophy and prehistory, as well as the domains of online worlds in relation to everyday realities. Overall, I'm concerned with virtual-real subjectivity and its manifestations. I continue working on a cdrom of the last eight years of my work (Archive), as well as a series of 3d animation and other videos, some of which are on cdrom. Information on the availability of cdroms containing the text and other materials (graphics, video, sound, articles books), see the appended notice below. You can find my collaborative projects at <http://trace.ntu.ac.uk/writers/sondheim/index.htm> and my conference activities at <http://trace.ntu.ac.uk> - both as a result of my virtual writer-in-residence with the Trace online writing community. See also: echo, Alt-X, e-book and publish-on-demand, 2002 Being on Line, Net Subjectivity (anthology), Lusitania, 1997 New Observations Magazine #120 (anthology), Cultures of Cyberspace, 1998 The Case of the Real, Pote and Poets Press, 1998 Jennifer, Nominative Press Collective, 1997 Alan Sondheim 718-857-3671 or 718-813-3285 (US) 432 Dean Street, Brooklyn, NY, 11217

The preceding statement absolutely implies quite a great body of beautifully creative work from an intelligent man who appears to some to have only been born yesterday and hardly able to pull the blanket up over his shoulders and certainly unable to know any clean words whatever clean words are or much less steal Appolon's golden penis whatever a penis is even if he has a very enlarged and blood gorged one on his hands. And now I will say farewell elect. trick burster of the gold chains of mediocre security and scion of free elect. trick Hermes and elect.trick Prometheus unbound:
And I shall
remember
you and I
will sing of another
human
too

ALAN SONDHEIM

1958 -

4: UNWOUND

H
a
p
p i
n
e
o
s v
e
r
f
i t
s
e t
e
y

mess ag

From: Alan
Sondheim Date:
Mon Nov 25 2002
9:59 pm Subject:
Periodic notice:
Internet Philosophy and

Psychology -

11/26/02 (last was 08/02/02) My recent work has been dealing with sexuality, terror, death, windows onto worlds, the confluence of subtropical nature with subsumption neural architectures. I have also been working on a series of 3D animations (mixed with real-life video), pieces exploring the same themes in extreme or extended spaces. An extended video, Trilby, was produced; more recent videos include a Scan series, and Alberta.mov. (All available reduced on cdrom.) this is a somewhat periodic notice describing my InternetText, available on the Net, and sent in the form of texts to various lists. The URLs are <http://www.sondheim.org> and <http://www.anu.edu.au/english/InternetText/> which is partially mirrored at <http://listx.village.virginia.edu/~spoons/InternetText.html>. See <http://www.asondheim.org/portal/> for new video/imagework; please note this is for over -18/ The changing nature of the email lists, Cybermind and Writing, to which almost all of the texts are sent usually, hides the full body of the work; readers may not be aware of the continuity among them. The writing may appear fragmented, created piecemeal, splintered from a non-existent whole. In my end, the whole is evident, the texts extended into the lists, partial or transitional objects. So this (periodic) notice is an attempt to recuperate the work as totality, restrain its diaphanous existence. Below is an abridged introduction. The "Internet Text" currently constitutes around 100 files, or 10,000 printed pages. It began in 1994, and has continued as an extended meditation on cyberspace, expanding into 'wild theory' and literatures, symptomologies of the edge. Almost all of the text is in the form of short- or long-waves. The former are the individual sections, written in a variety of styles, at times referencing other writers/theorists. The sections are interrelated; on occasion emanations are used, avatars of philosophical or psychological import. These also create and problematize narrative substructures within the work as a whole. Such are Susan Graham, Julu, Alan, Jennifer, Azure, and Nikuko in particular. The long-waves are fuzzy thematic bearings on such issues as death, sexuality, virtual embodiment, the "granularity of the real," physical reality, computer languages, and protocols. The waves weave throughout the text; the resulting splits and convergences owe something to phenomenology, programming deconstruction, linguistics, philosophy and prehistory, as well as the domains of online worlds in relation to everyday realities. Overall, I'm concerned with virtual-real subjectivity and its manifestations. I continue working on a cdrom of the last eight years of my work (Archive), as well as a series of 3d animation and other videos, some of which are on cdrom. Information on the availability of cdroms containing the text and other materials (graphics, video, sound, articles books), see the appended notice below. You can find my collaborative projects at <http://trace.ntu.ac.uk/writers/sondheim/index.htm> and my conference activities at <http://trace.ntu.ac.uk> - both as a result of my virtual writer-in-residence with the Trace online writing community. See also: echo, Alt-X, e-book and publish-on-demand, 2002 Being on Line, Net Subjectivity (anthology), Lusitania, 1997 New Observations Magazine #120 (anthology), Cultures of Cyberspace, 1998, The Case of the Real, Pote and Poets Press, 1998, Nominative Press Collective, 1997 Alan Sondheim 718-857-3671 or 718-813-3285 (U.S.) 432 Dean Street Brooklyn, NY, 11217

The preceding statement absolutely implies quite a great body of beautifully creative work from an intelligent man who appears to some to have only been born yesterday and hardly able to pull the blanket up over his shoulders and certainly unable to know any clean words whatever clean words are or much less steal Appolon's golden penis whatever a penis is even if he has a very enlarged and blood gorged one on his hands. And now I will say farewell elect. trick burster of the gold chains of mediocre security and scion of free elect. trick Hermes and elect. trick Prometheus unbound:

And I shall
remember
you and I
will sing of another
human
untoo

www.sondheim.org

ALAN SONDHEIM

1958 -

5: SOUND

H
a
p
p i
n
e
o
s
s
e t
e
y

L
i
b r
a
r
y

B
e L
a
i
u
t
y

Message
From: Alan
Sondheim Date:
Mon Nov 25, 2002
9:59 pm Subject:
Periodic notice:
Internet Philosophy and

Psychology -
11/26/02 (last was 08/02/02) My recent work has been dealing with sexuality, terror, death, windows onto worlds, the confluence of subtropical nature with subsumption neural architectures.
I have also been working on a series of 3D animations (mixed with real-life video), pieces exploring the same themes in extreme or extended spaces. An extended video, Trilby, was produced; more recent videos include a Scan series, and Alberta.mov. (All available reduced on cdrom.) this is a somewhat periodic notice describing my Internet Text, available on the Net, and sent in the form of texts to various lists. The URLs are <http://www.sondheim.org> <http://www.sondheim.org> and <http://www.anu.edu.au/english/InternetText/> which is partially mirrored at <http://lists.village.virginia.edu/~spoons/internet.txt.html>. See <http://www.asondheim.org/portal> for new video/imagework; please note this is for over -18/ The changing nature of the email lists, Cybermind and Writing, to which almost all of the texts are sent usually, hides the full body of the work; readers may not be aware of the continuity among them. The writing may appear fragmented, created piecemeal, splintered from a non-existent whole. In my end, the whole is evident, the texts extended into the lists, partial or transitional objects. So this periodic notice is an attempt to recuperate the work as totality, restrain its diaphanous existence. Below is an unrelated introduction. The "Internet Text" currently constitutes around 100 files, or 10,000 printed pages. It began in 1994, and has continued as an extended meditation on cyberspace, expanding into 'wild theory' and literatures, symptomologies of the edge. Almost all of the text is in the form of short- or long-waves. The former are the individual sections, written in a variety of styles, at times referencing other writers/theorists. The sections are interrelated; on occasion emanations are used, avatars of philosophical or psychological import. These also create and problematize narrative substructures within the work as a whole. Such are Susan Graham, Julu, Alan, Jennifer, Azure, and Nikuko in particular. The long-waves are fuzzy thematics bearing on such issues as death, sexuality, virtual embodiment, the "granularity of the real," physical reality, computer languages, and protocols. The waves weave throughout the text; the resulting splits and convergences owe something to phenomenology, programming deconstruction, linguistics, philosophy and prehistory, as well as the domains of online worlds in relation to everyday realities. Overall, I'm concerned with virtual-real subjectivity and its manifestations. I continue working on a cdrom of the last eight years of my work (Archive), as well as a series of 3d animation and other videos, some of which are on cdrom. Information on the availability of cdroms containing the text and other materials (graphics, video, sound, articles books), see the appended notice below. You can find my collaborative projects at <http://trace.ntu.ac.uk/writers/sondheim/index.htm> and my conference activities at <http://trace.ntu.ac.uk> - both as a result of my virtual writer-in-residence with the Trace online writing community. See also: echo, Alt-X, e-book and publish-on-demand, 2002 Being on Line, Net Subjectivity (anthology), Lusitania, 1997 New Observations Magazine #120 (anthology), Cultures of Cyberspace, 1998, The Case of the Real, Pote and Poets Press, 1998, Nominative Press Collective, 1997 Alan Sondheim 718-857-3671 or 718-813-3285 (U.S.) 432 Dean Street, Brooklyn, NY, 11217

The preceding statement absolutely implies quite a great body of beautifully creative work from an intelligent man who appears to some to have only been born yesterday and hard ly able to pull the blanket up over his shoulders and certain ly unable to know any clean words whatever clean words are or much less steal Appolon's golden penis whatever a penis is even if he has a very enlarged and blood gorged one on his hands. And now I will say farewell elect. trick burster of the gold chains of mediocre security and scion of free elect. trick Hermes and elect. trick Prometheus unbound:

And I shall
remember
you and I
will sing of another
human not too

